Ever made to the people of Grayling and Crawford County, and of Northern Michigan. Don't miss a word of it.

All Truth! All Facts! Sure they are the punch and jab that prove the acid test of any form of Ad., since we started our store four years ago, then a small little place; and in the four years we have outgrown our place. Every bit of floor space on both floors is packed with the best merchandise that can be bought. We have always given the people the right kind of merchandise at a price a little less than others can sell for. My experience in merchandise during the last 22 years, especially in clothing, has made me an expert in that line. I picked out all the cloth myself, felt it and compared with other merchandise, for which more money was asked. We have bought our clothing for this fall of such firms of worldwide reputation as Burnstein Brothers & Rosenthal, of New York; Okun & Schweitzer, of New York; L. Margulius & Son, of New York; Empire Novelty and Clothing Co., of New York. These names, gentlemen, are names to conjure with when it comes to Suits and Overcoats. Their nationwide confidence is the result of a continuous effort to excel, each representing a tailoring organization, contributes the utmost that experience and market ability can lend to every garment.

The Home Circle

NO PLACE LIKE HOME.
One of our most valued exchanges very timely remarks that the best of us are like animals—we rush into holes after shelter. Home is such against the hardness of the world.

Margery Bell, the Cleveland girl, who ran away, said on her return home: "You'll never know how much you want and need your mother, or your brother, or your father, until you are away from them."

Oh, how strong, how unerring, are the fundamental instincts of human nature. We can never outlive them. The joyous child, shrouded by the bright flowers and butterflies, the rainbow, may forget and wander far, but when the feet are bruised and the limbs weary and the heart sore, and it sees naught but strange, strange faces for home.

Men and women have a little stronger, er limbs and little stronger hearts; they can chase the butterflies and rainbows a little farther, but they, too, like the little child, must see the mocking folly of it all and weary, heart-sick, cry for refuge—home.

For many of us, the old home may only exist in memory, but in memory it is cherished, then, whatever the disappointments, the discipines, the despair of life, we still may turn for new hope, new courage, and new inspirations, as did this poor girl, back to the old home, where love glows against the world's coldness.

Misfortune has its recompense when it turns us back to set our lips once more to the spring of love that is pure and undimmed.

Amid joys and successes our surroundings seemed not so near to us; they are remote in their unreality, their glitter and abundance. And when sorrow comes it finds us sick with loneliness. It is then that in the lowly home of childhood every table and every chair and picture seems to take tongue and call to us.

REFLECTS OF GOOD READING.

Childhood is surely the time to acquire knowledge; a healthy child is never still or idle. Every moment he is aware he is learning something. And all his knowledge of the world is obtained through his five or six senses as some count him; but he learns most, as we guess, we all do, from what he is told, from what he sees, and from reading. Before he knows one letter from another he will look at pictures for an hour at a time and if he can find anyone to read or tell him about what he sees, his tongue is as busy as his eyes. His little brain must do something to keep both members busy. What he learns from a picture book is not to be uncalculated.

As soon as the child is old enough to read, if he is not provided with reading material there are only two ways for him to do, either to find books and papers for himself, or to spend his time some other way. As what a child reads has such a power over his whole life, it is very important that parents be careful about what their children read. If a taste or desire for reading is not formed in early life it is probable it never will be, or if a passion for the worthless, sensational print be acquired it will be difficult to eradicate such a desire. Negligence or thoughtlessness of parents on this question if often the cause of lifelong regret.

What a pure, blessed region is the open country. None should go away from it forever, and some should never leave, so full is it of purity and beauty. Its beauty is the basis of some of the fine arts and the inspiration of all. Culture is no more the power to appreciate an orchestra or an opera than the power to appreciate the songs of the birds. It requires as much culture to appreciate a field of blooming clover as to appreciate a gallery of art. True culture is not the power to appreciate a book, a picture or an opera. It is the power that detects the anthem of the morning larks; that can hear a robin sing without shooting it. The power to walk carefully upon the earth's carpet of flowers. It spares even the bruised reed. This is the culture of earth and heaven.

Never forsake a friend. When enemies gather around, when sickness falls on the heart, is the time to try your friendship. They who turn from the scenes of distress betray their hypocrisy and prove that interest only can move them. If you have a friend who loves you—who has studied your interest and happiness—be sure to sustain him in adversity. Let him feel that his former kindness is appreciated, and that his love was not thrown away. Real fidelity may be rare, but it exists in the heart. They only deny its worth and power who have never loved a friend or labored to make one happy.

WILSON, FERRIS, WOODRUFF ARE WINNERS.

TAFT CARRIES CRAWFORD COUNTY WITH ROOSEVELT A CLOSE SECOND. FERRIS, FOR GOVERNOR, GIVEN BIG VOTE. REPUBLICANS ELECT COUNTY TICKET EXCEPT MR. HANNA FOR TREASURER.

Election day, (Tuesday) dawned with clear skies and a delightful atmosphere and in previous years had every omen of a republican victory, but this time even the elements had no control.

The polls were open promptly at 7:00 a. m. and Daniel Mosher entered behind the railing and was handed the official ballot No. 1, size 15 x 22 inches and was officially informed by Mr. Geo. Mahon, "I hereby hand you the official ballot and ballots for voting upon the proposition of woman's suffrage and charter amendment" and thus the voting started. There was a pretty steady string of people passing all day long until five o'clock p. m. when at the last moment Arnold Burroughs handed to Inspector Collier ballot No. 123. "Hear ye! hear ye! these polls are now closed" and the responsibility of the voters of Crawford county was at an end. They had made their choice; each with the best of motives, according to the best of his judgment. The election was over and there was no way to recall the day; some were doomed to disappointment and others to joy. The paths of office seekers are not always rosy and while we may rejoice in our friends success let us not make another unhappy by heaping censure upon his defeat.

WOODBRIDGE N. FERRIS

The outcome of the election had been prophesied on every corner—but arguments were usually concluded with "well nobody knows."

The republicans hoped for victory, the democrats could see nothing but victory and the Progressives were sure of it.

The counting of the votes was a slow and tedious work. Fifty nine straight republican tickets were voted also 49 democratic, 12 progressive, two socialist and one socialist labor, and 296 split tickets in Grayling. This was the first news passed out to the eager listeners.

All night long the inspectors counted and it was about 8 a. m. next morning when the last ballot was registered into the record books.

Taft carried this county by 12 votes. Ferris proved to be a favorite and walked away with a plurality of 143 in this county and about 10,000 in the state. Five prohibition tickets were cast in the county.

Womans Suffrage carried the county by a majority of 35. Frederic was the only town voting against it and in Grayling it was an even vote 150 for and the same against.

All republican candidates on the county ticket were elected with the exception of John Hanna who was defeated by John Hum who won by the small majority of 28.

Outside of Governor the entire republican ticket was elected. Roy O. Woodruff for Congress from this district was victor over Congressman Loid by about 191 votes.

A tabulated report of the vote in this county appears on the fifth page of this paper and will be of interest of anyone interested in the political history of the county.

In national politics Wilson was given one of the largest electoral votes of any presidential candidate. It was a complete landslide, however the popular vote was little larger than that given Mr. Bryan four years ago.

Figures show that Governor Wilson has not won by his own strength nor the strength of his own party, for when the columns of the republican and progressive parties are added they show a larger vote against Wilson than in his favor.

However Wilson has won. The future is firmly fixed for the next four years, so far as the government is concerned and the country must adjust itself to the conditions ahead of it.

Illinois University Endorses Stock Show.

The Hon. Eugene Davenport, in a recent interview, expressed himself as follows, relative to the International Live Stock Exposition, which will this year be held November 30 to December 7.

"It is a mistake to suppose that the promotion of agricultural interest affects only farmers. The truth of the matter is that other people are more interested and more affected by agricultural progress than are the farmers themselves. Along the line of live stock husbandry the greatest public need is that the common man should enjoy good animal products at a reasonable price. It is a simple proposition, when reduced to its lowest terms, but to secure these products at a reasonable price means that every man specializing in live stock must employ every device known, to improve the quality of his product as well as to lessen the cost of production. To this end, no single agency bears greater results than the bringing together each year at the International Live Stock Exposition, Union Stock Yards Chicago, specimens of the best cattle, horses, hogs and sheep that the world has been able to produce. Such a gathering, takes place this fall, and not only farmers but men in all kinds of business enterprise in the country should support and attend the exposition."

WORKINGMAN'S LAW APPLIES TO CITIES

PERSONS INJURED WHILE IN EMPLOY OF MUNICIPALITIES ARE ENTITLED TO COMPENSATION.

SOME CASES HAVE BEEN SETTLED WITHOUT REPORTING TO STATE.

All Settlements Must Be Forwarded to the State Board at Lansing, and Approved by the Board.

The state industrial accident board is interested in knowing what cities in Michigan are going to do relative to compensation paid employees injured while in the employ of the municipality.

There has recently been called to the attention of the board two accidents from Detroit where men were injured while in the employ of the city. One was employed in the collection division of the garbage department, the other injured while in the employ of the department of public works. The state board has been appealed to in both cases and the injured workmen have been given the information desired by the board and it is now up to the city to allow the necessary compensation. The law plainly reads that all cities, counties, incorporated villages, townships and school districts come under the law and that persons employed by them, when injured, are liable for compensation.

All employers who have made any kind of a settlement with employees injured while in their employ, are required under the law to make a report of such settlement to the state board. This is not being done by some employers and in other cases where settlements are made and sent to the board for approval, discrepancies are found all the way from three cents to $2. The board does not regard these errors as falling on the part of the employer, but it is evident that neither the employer or employee has yet a thorough understanding of the workings of the new law and the board is very anxious that they should seek information when in doubt. The board has printed 5,000 more copies of the law, which are ready for distribution. In addition to this the board has had prepared 4,000 copies of information to employers, and these are ready for distribution.

There seems to be an impression on the part of employers as well as employees that when a settlement is effected in case of an injury to an employee, the matter ends there. Such is not the case as a report of all settlements must be forwarded to the state board at Lansing, and approved.

New Road From Alpena to Boyne City. The state railroad commission has granted the proposed Boyne City, Gaylord & Alpena railroad permission to go ahead with the construction of its system, traversing Alpena, Montmorency, Oshtemo and Charlevoix counties.

The decision ends a hard fight waged against the new road by General Superintendent J. D. Hawks, of the Detroit & Mackinac railroad, in connection with a personal contest between Hawks and Frank W. Fletcher, the Alpena millionaire paper manufacturer.

It was the contention of Mr. Hawks that the line of the new road crossed the tracks of the D. & M. too many times and that the company it proposes to serve cannot support it and investors would lose as a result.

DEATH CLAIMS VICE-PRESIDENT SHERMAN

JAMES SCHOOLCRAFT SHERMAN PASSED AWAY AFTER A LONG ILLNESS CAUSED BY BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

WIFE AND THREE SONS WERE AT BEDSIDE WHEN DEATH OCCURRED.

Universal Sorrow Is Shown at Demise of Distinguished Statesman Who Gave Life to Public.

After a long illness, Vice President Sherman died at his home in Utica, N. Y., at 9:42 o'clock Wednesday night, of uremic poison caused by Bright's disease.

He had been sinking since early morning and it was realized that death was a question only of a few hours.

There was slight relief shortly after 7 o'clock caused by an apparent improvement in the condition of the kidneys, but it did not prove real or lasting, and at best gave only temporary hope.

At 9 o'clock the patient's temperature rose to 106. From that time his condition rapidly passed from bad to worse until the end. Mr. Sherman was unconscious when the end came and had been in that condition for hours.

Family at Deathbed. All the members of the immediate family were witnesses to the final scene. In addition to Mrs. Sherman there were in the death chamber their three sons, Sherman, Richard, and Thomas M. Sherman, and the respective wives; R. M. and Sanford Sherman, brothers of Mr. Sherman, and Mrs. L. B. Moore and Mrs. H. C. Cookman, sisters of Mr. Sherman.

Soon after Mr. Sherman's death, Dr. Fayette H. Peck, the attending physician, issued the following statement:

Complications Bring Death. "The vice-president died at 9:42 p. m. without regaining consciousness for a moment. He was perfectly quiet. He had been entirely unconscious since 7 o'clock, when he had a period of partial consciousness lasting for about 15 minutes. He died of a cardiac coma as a result of Bright's disease, heart disease and arteriosclerosis."

Mrs. Sherman bore up bravely under the death of her husband, as she also did the other members of the family. Although it was said at the house that the hopelessness of Mr. Sherman's fight against death had been realized since Friday, the blow nevertheless was a crushing one.

A few of the intimate friends of the family came to express their sympathy and to bid adieu to the departed. Among them Dr. A. H. Holden, pastor of Christ Reformed church, where the Shermans worship.

Vice President Sherman Laid to Rest. With simple but impressive services the body of Vice President James S. Sherman was laid in a crypt within the beautiful mausoleum in Forest Hill cemetery, in Utica, N. Y.

Under a canvas covering that served as a shield against a chill November wind were gathered the Sherman family, President Taft, members of his cabinet, justices of the United States supreme court, senators and members of the house of representatives and a few intimate friends and business associates of the vice-president.

Without a throng who had assembled to pay a final tribute stood reverently until the strains of "A Sleep in Jesus," by the Hayden Male chorus, which marked the conclusion of the services, had died away.

Managers of two Cadillac milk routes have stated that they will go out of business in a few days, as there is no money in selling milk at 7-cents a quart. Other managers say they will charge 10 cents a quart as soon as the other men quit.

Dr. F. S. Goodrich, general secretary of the Michigan Sunday school association, completed the program for the fifty-second annual state Sunday school convention, in Lansing, Nov. 13, 14 and 15. With the central location of the convention it bids fair to draw a record-breaking number.

Six Nuns Die in Flames. Sacrificing their lives to rescue 27 orphan children in their charge, six Sisters of Charity perished in a fire that destroyed St. John's orphanage in San Antonio, Tex. One baby fell to death with Mary of the Cross, mother superior of the institution, who left her place of safety in vain effort to save the child. Another orphan is missing, and it is feared it did not escape.

Flames broke out in the building early morning. Roused from their sleep, the nuns marshaled their charges to the exits, remaining at their posts until the last of the children were safely out of the burning building. Kostka Farrell and Monica Montez, were killed by jumping.

Three sisters escaped. Instructed to pilot the first column of frightened children out of danger, they gained the ground in time to escape the crash of falling walls.

The children, once their lives to the initial daring and self-sacrifice of the nuns.

$100,000 Battleship Launched. With her champagne-spattered bow glistering in the sunshine and a pretty girl enthusiastically shouting, "Christen thee New York," the steel-hulled, $100,000 battleship, launched, that is soon to be the latest "pride of the navy," slid down from the greased ways in the Brooklyn navy yard into the East river's murky waters.

At least 100,000 persons witnessed the launching, the most notable being President Taft, who from a private stand smiled on Miss Edith Calder, daughter of Congressman William M. Calder, as she excitedly cradled a be-ribboned bottle against the battleship's steel bow.

Conservatives Win in Cuba. Geo. Mario Menocal, who was elected to the presidency of Cuba, of the conservative ticket cabled the following statement to the people of the United States through the New York World:

"My own success is nothing in comparison to Cuba's demonstration of her ability to hold her own in the elections in which her law-abiding electorate has shown its thorough confidence in the government we have established. We feel and will soon prove that we are worthy of that confidence which the people of the United States and the outside world once placed in us."

(Signed) "MARIO MENOCAL." Gen. Menocal defeated the liberal candidate, Vice President Alfredo Zayas. It had been feared that bloodshed would come with the election.

Montreal Steamer Sinks During Gale. During a storm Saturday night the steamer Cecilia, which plied between Montreal and Valleyfield, sank at La Perle, in Lake St. Louis, 10 miles west of Montreal. At least 15 people were drowned, the list of missing men, women and children. Only four passengers were saved, all men.

Several Wounded in Havana Riots. A riot broke out in Havana and a conservative meeting in a densely populated district of the city.

The combatants used knives and pistols. One man was killed and several were wounded.

The fight apparently was started by Zayasists. The police finally restored order after which cavalry patrolled the disturbed section.

The average death rate for 20 states recording their deaths is 1,471 per 100,000. Michigan's rate is 1,414.

The Williamsburg Boys and Girls' Potato club was organized in Williamsburg by J. J. T. Ompson, district supervisor of the farm management work. In that part of Michigan.

The state must take some radical action to prevent the pollution of rivers and streams, declared Prof. Griggs in a talk to students at Ann Arbor. No control over sewers and but very little over the public water supply.

Bankers in the southern part of the state will hold a conference in Kalamazoo soon for the purpose of establishing uniform rates of interest and rules for the time of computing the same. At present most of the banks are paying a per cent on deposits and 3 1/2 per cent on certificates of deposit.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Detroit & Mackinac railroad in Alpena, the following were elected directors: H. K. McHarg, Sr., H. K. McHarg, Jr., W. Ferguson, of Stamford, Conn.; J. D. Hawks, of Detroit; and A. D. Moran, of New York.

About half the counties in the state have appropriated money to co-operate with the state and federal governments in farmer demonstration work. Many requests are being received for the few demonstrators now at work.

The threatened strike of Alpena township school teachers was averted Friday when 14 teachers met with the township school board and agreed on a compromise, whereby the teachers will receive janitors' fees for taking care of the school.

The maximum salary is now $35, with an average of $25 a month. The janitors' fees amount to about $2 a month for each teacher.

TURKISH EMPIRE IS TOTTERING

ARMIES OF BALKAN ALLIES, LED BY BULGARIANS, PUSH TO WITHIN SIGHT OF CONSTANTINOPLE.

GREEKS BOLDLY SINK TURKISH WARSHIP.

Turk Ships Bombard Lighthouses, and Bulgarians Protest Over Such Unnecessary Conduct.

The Turkish army on which the fate of the Ottoman empire depends has been outgeneraled and outwitted. It has made what is believed to be the last stand against the victorious Bulgarians and is now falling back in disorder on its final line of defense at the forts of Tehtalis, only 25 miles from Constantinople.

Grave doubts are expressed in military circles, and repeated even in the Turkish capital, as to whether the remnants of the immense but disorganized army of the sultan will make any serious attempt to hold this line.

Foreigners in Constantinople are fearful for the safety of the Christian populations of the Turkish empire and the European powers have taken steps in this connection by the dispatch of warships to Saloniki, Constantinople and other Turkish ports for the protection of their nationals.

This is the most pressing question of the moment. One correspondent in Constantinople writes that the Turkish retreat from Tehtalis might result in massacres and pillage which is no longer an army, but a mob.

GRAYLING, THURSDAY, NOV. 7

This is a speech, brief, but full of inspiration, and opening the way to all heroes; it is the rule by which to weigh rightly all wonderful successes and triumphant marches of fortune and genius. It should be the motto of all, old and young, high and low, fortunate and unfortunate, so-called: "Press on!" Never despair, never be discouraged; however dark the way, however stormy the heavens, however great the difficulties, and repeated the failures: "Press on!" If fortune has played false with thee today, do play true for thyself tomorrow. If an unfortunate bargain has deranged thy business, do not fold thy arms and give up all as lost, but stir thyself and work more vigorously. Let the foolishness of yesterday make thee wise today. If another has been false to thee, increase thy vigil by being false to thyself. Do not say the world has lost all its poetry and beauty; 'tis not so; and even if it be so, make thy own poetry and beauty by living a true and unblemished life.

DETERMINE SEX OF A GOOSE

One Good Way is to Notice Difference in Voices—Mating Season is Usually in Fall.

In answer to a query as to method or rule for determining the sex of geese, an exchange makes the following reply:

There are no marks by which one can tell the gender from the goose. The only way is to watch the actions of the birds and to notice the differences in their voices. The gander has what is popularly called a "tenor" voice. It is possible that all four of your birds may be geese. If so, ing purposes make their purchases in the fall so the fowls will get accustomed to their new surroundings. Doubtless nests will be made and the eggs laid, but the eggs may not hatch. If you are forced to buy a gander this spring, it will perhaps be advisable for you to purchase some good eggs of the same breed as you keep, and use these rather than the eggs from your own flock, or at least mark the eggs so that you can distinguish the purchased ones from those laid by your own birds. In this way you should not be wholly disappointed.

sluggish it is needed as a purifier to ward off diseases incidental to these seasons.

It should be kept before fowls in size to suit their age, and where fowls refuse to eat it, fine charcoal should be mixed in the mash occasionally. It is best given to individual birds in five-grain capsules—large doses are necessary.

Select two four-inch pieces six feet long. Lay them parallel and nail five crosspieces, three feet long and three inches wide, to these. The legs may be made of 2 by 4 stuff the desired length. By means of long spikes secure them to the parallel pieces, says the Iowa Homestead. Place these in roosting quarters for chickens and they will soon be perching upon it at night.

Does the average farmer know that an excellent grade of charcoal can be made by burning corn cobs left they turn red, extinguishing the fire and when dry grinding for mash feeding for the poultry.

Charcoal is not a food, though fowls gain in flesh and eggs during its use; it simply puts them and keeps them in a good condition for work. It prevents disease because of its great capacity to absorb gases, acids and impurities. It is an alternative, changing diseased conditions to normal, disinfecting the digestive tract and toning up the system.

In putrid disease like roup, in fermentation like sour crop, in intestinal maladies like diarrhea or cholera, it is of great benefit. In laying and in summer, when the fowls' blood is

Mrs. R. W. Brink returned home from Saginaw last Saturday where she had been in attendance upon her sister, Miss Francis Smith who is in the Woman's hospital at that place. Miss Smith formerly lived here and is well known to us. She underwent a serious operation but is now considered out of danger and hopes to be able to leave the hospital in about two weeks, and will come to Grayling to recuperate. Her many friends here will be glad to know that she is out of danger.

Some of the members of the Loyal Order of Moose intended to spring a surprise upon M. N. Callaghan, of Reed City, who came here last Saturday to deliver a political speech. A number of the members wearing the lodge colors and carrying Moose canes met the train from the north that day intending to give Mr. Callaghan a great ovation but the gentleman arrived on the "cannon ball" from the south and was at the bank parlors when the south-bound train arrived thus missed the treat in store for him. Mr. Callaghan is a past supreme dictator in that order. A large number of Moose and their wives attended the political meeting that evening.

A number of residences have been built in Grayling during the past summer and we wish to especially compliment Grant Shaw on the fine home he has built for himself and family on Michigan avenue. Throughout the entire work of construction Mr. Shaw has given his personal labor and supervision. He is a telegraph operator by profession but he also knows how to do carpenter work as his labors plainly show. The home has four large bedrooms upstairs and a parlor, sitting room, dining room, kitchen and bedroom down stairs and a fine basement. The inside work is of yellow pine and highly finished. Hardwood floors are throughout the house, all finished and oiled. The work of putting in the doors and window casings was done by Mr. Shaw and is done better than the average carpenter will do. The house is built warm and comfortable and Mr. and Mrs. Shaw expect to take a lot of pleasure in their new home.

The presidential campaign of 1912 was closed in Grayling with a Republican meeting at the Opera house last Saturday night. The meeting was opened with a chorus of mixed voices singing the "Star Spangled Banner."

Chairman T. W. Hanson began the speaking by paying a splendid tribute to "Dr. O. Palmer" calling him the "Grand Old Man of Crawford County" and introduced him to the audience.

Mr. Palmer responded with a brief talk, stating why he was a republican and speaking in general behalf of the county candidates. M. N. Callaghan, of Reed City followed with a message directed principally to the "first voters" and giving a review of how the republican party had stood upon some of the great problems since its organization. He also pictured the condition of the country under republican rule and democratic rule, and told convincingly the causes of the "high cost of living." In a general way he preached the gospel of republicanism most excellently. At the close of Mr. Callaghan's speech, T. W. Hanson made a most earnest appeal in behalf of Congressman Lund and in a "straight from the shoulder" talk in his usual sincere manner gave his listeners the most logical reason why Mr. Lund should receive their votes.

Mr. Hanson further gave his assurance that whoever may be elected that they should receive our hearty endorsement and respective loyalty.

Thus ended the campaign of 1912. Fr. Riess and Roosevelt, Musselman, Ferris and Watkins, Lund, Coulman and Woodruff, and an excellent list of county candidates.

Boy Scouts hike to Portage Lake.

There were ten boys at the M. E. church at 9:15 Saturday morning, October 25th, so we started in double file down Main street, turning at Railroad street. We walked on the sidewalk till we came to the M. & N. E. depot then we walked on the road in single file. The steam roller had been over making it smooth and easy to walk on. Three other scouts took a rig and started out behind us, over taking us before we reached the first mile post.

Between the first and second mile post we killed a snake with our staffs. We went a little further and found a good place to reconnoitre, which we did, making notes respecting the woods, roads, water, telephone, bridges, and the hills.

A slight breeze was blowing from the south, and the sky was clear. On catching sight of the water the scout master dismounted and played the piccolo as we marched to the drill grounds.

We then found shelter from a cool wind which was blowing from across the lake, and after maneuvers we displayed our lunches, which we had carried in our knapsacks. This formed an attractive trap to the three missing scouts, whose horse and buggy we had already discovered tied to a tree. As they had broke the rules by taking guns we called upon them to surrender, which they did, as they had brought no food along. Two of them offered to walk home with us, but the third had to take his horse home, but the guns and shells proved to great a temptation and we had to leave them behind.

The gun was getting high and we realized that the return journey would be somewhat warmer. Seven ran for a mile, and two for two miles, the scoutmaster always keeping behind the last man. One boy could not keep the pace so we made a stretcher of coats and staffs and carried him a short distance. The boys who had run ahead where now overtaken, resting under trees, under which they had placed a signal. We pressed them into the stretcher squad and after reaching the bridge we dispersed in search of fresh water. Having satisfied our thirst we formed a single file and came into town. We were dismissed at the Opera house at 12:30 after an enjoyable hike. EMERSON BATES.

SEEK SAFETY FOR AIR SPEEDERS

HERBERT QUIMBY, AEROPLANE WRITER

THE ever-growing number of human lives sacrificed to the advancement of aviation gives us ample reason for pause and serious thought. The toll so far paid is rapidly nearing a total of two hundred since the death of Lieutenant Selfridge, of the United States army, in September, 1908. Naturally, some of these fatal accidents were to be expected after flying became a money-making spectacle in some directions. The professional aviator felt obliged to make his flights thrilling in the eyes of the spectator and to that end he has done things of a venturesome nature, for which he has paid dearly more than once.

DOWNWARD REACTING AIR CURRENTS CAUSED BY NOT DROPPING NO. 2

We are not concerned with this phase of the art. Foolhardiness is no real part of the effort to advance human flight, even though attendant mishaps may teach useful lessons. What is of serious concern is the loss of life of those earnestly devoted to the furtherance of the science already about six hundred feet up, when Lieutenant Briez overtook him, passing at greater speed something like a hundred feet above. Lieutenant Briez's machine created, so it is said, a downward moving "hole in the air," and this struck Lieutenant Briez's monoplane in such a manner as to destroy its equilibrium. Lieutenant Briez and his machine were dashed to the earth, the aviator having both legs broken and being otherwise seriously but not fatally injured. In this case the innocent cause of the accident was the movement of the aeroplane passing above at a height of a hundred feet, while Mlle. Dutrieu's drop was probably brought about by the maneuvering of the two monoplanes beneath her.

These accidents have brought us face to face with new problems in the art of mechanical flight—they show us that we have much to learn about the air in which we are seeking to vie with the bird.

The man in the story has a mistaken notion of what these air holes really are; he imagines that they are areas of partial vacuum which fall to give the flying machine proper support. The hazard they present is reasonably pictured all the greater because there is no visible sign of their presence—the aircraft just suddenly starts to drop and may fall several hundred feet before the movement can be corrected, if corrected at all.

On June 20, at Aix-les-Bains, Mlle. Helene Dutrieu, while aloft, fell upon two ascending monoplanes, and all three machines dropped to the ground in a heap. The two latter aviators were pretty seriously bruised, but Mlle. Dutrieu was uninjured, fortunately falling upon the underlying machines and thus having the force of her drop greatly lessened. Undoubtedly, Mlle. Dutrieu hit a "hole in the air," and her monoplane started earthward before she could check or control its descent by a gliding volplane. The question is, What caused that hole in the air? Did the movement of the two ascending aeroplanes create the disturbance which narrowly escaped causing a serious catastrophe? This has been answered by subsequent accidents.

Two French army officers, Lieutenants Briez and Buriez, on July 6 started for Reims, on the eastern frontier, leaving the aeroplane station at Villa Coublay, just outside of Paris. Lieutenant Briez had the start of his associate, and was moving horizontally or upward in opposition to the surface of the planes, should be falling, then the support of the flying machine is suddenly diminished to that extent, and the aeroplane drops. Again if the aviator is traveling against a stratum of wind of a definite speed and then purposely descends, reaching an air belt of lower speed or altered direction, these changes may reduce the force of the air striking the surfaces of his planes, and this drop in pressure may cause his machine to fall speedily earthward. This is another proof, of course, of the imaginary vacant places in the air.

We must bear in mind that the problem of the flying machine is quite distinct from that of the balloon. The balloon floats because it is either lighter than the air it displaces—when it rises—or remains at a fixed altitude because there is a perfect balance between its weight and that of the air which it thrusts aside. It remains aloft whether drifting with the wind or being driven by a motor. The heavier-than-air flying machine, on the other hand, is sustained in flight only so long as its movement forward arouses sufficient opposition on the part of the air to lift or to sustain it. When the propellers cease to revolve the aeroplane starts earthward, and disaster can be avoided only by volplaning or performing a sweeping spiral descent. A maneuver of this sort is nothing more nor less than a modified drop. The safety of the aeroplane, therefore, when in midair, depends upon the nice balancing of the machine and the proper equalizing of pressure upon the planes. Edibles in the air or any other disturbance which will bring the aeroplane into conflicting atmospheric belts or zones will imperil the stability of the machine and the life of the aviator unless he be ever watchful, and there are some of these conditions against which he cannot sufficiently guard.

The flying machine, in going ahead, hits the air a succession of rapid blows, and by this causes an area of compression which is equal in the force of its reaction to the weight of the flying machine. The fact of it is, this compression actually affects a volume of air equal in weight to the air craft it sustains, and as a cubic foot of atmospheric air weighs only .08 of a pound at the freezing point, a little figuring will show how wide is the area upon which the aviator must draw for his support.

What happens then when the flying machine has moved onward and the atmosphere tries to resume its normal state? The reaction is like the release of a spring, and the air acquires a vibratory motion—greatest in a vertical direction—akin to the prolonged bobbings of a partly water-soaked log after being hit a blow. But this is not all.

We are living at the bottom of an ocean of air, and we are living in that region of the atmosphere where it is densest. The natural tendency for the atmosphere is to fall when not made lighter by heat and caused to rise. An aeroplane shooting through this lower belt is substantially knocking out the foundations from beneath the atmospheric columns reaching many thousands of feet heavenward, and we have in the air a virtual duplication of our bobbing log many, many times repeated at every stage of the upward movement of the flying machine and the successive reactions of the compressed air which has momentarily sustained that mechanical flight. Isn't it clear, then, that an aviator, when passing above or below another aviator is either stumbling into air holes thus created or producing a similar condition to menace his nearby fellow? The aviator advancing at the greater speed will produce the widest area of disturbance, and within any prescribed limit, the more dangerous reaction.

The flying machine when aloft is in a state of delicate equilibrium, otherwise the mere flexing of wing tips would be incapable of correcting its horizontal position. Any change of pressure at the extremity of its wings is equivalent to adding or reducing the weight at the one or the other tip, and an upsetting movement is started. It is quite probable that even though one aeroplane may be a full hundred feet above or below another, still the greater speed of the overtaking machine may cause a sufficient downward movement on the part of the air to overweight suddenly one wing of the other machine. This is certainly what happened in the case of Lieutenant Briez, Mlle. Dutrieu and a number of others.

The task set the investigators is that of finding how wide is the region of agitation created by a flying machine, in flight, and with this knowledge, to prescribe the proper distances which aviators must observe when approaching one another.

Fortunately, the flying machine is now studied in the laboratory, and recent progress in experimental aerodynamics is going much toward clearing the way for safe advance in the near future, but the public must be patient and it must realize that flying is full of hazards at best, and we are really scarcely more than upon the threshold of this wonderful science.

BACKACHE "GETS ON THE NERVES"

Many who suffer from backache and weak kidneys are unnaturally irritable, frolic and nervous. Not only does constant backache "get on the nerves," but bad kidneys fail to eliminate all the uric acid from the system, and uric acid irritates the nerves, keeping you "on edge" and causing rheumatic neuralgia pains. Doan's Kidney Pills cure these ills by curing the kidneys. Here's proof:

Mrs. J. Hunt, 1888, Ch. St., Hartford, Conn., writes: "I suffered from kidney trouble, and severe backache, and my limbs ached so I could not walk. I tried many remedies, but nothing helped me. I then tried Doan's Kidney Pills, and in a few days I was cured. I feel like a new woman now."—Every Picture Tells a Story.

"Dieu et mon Droit"—God and My Right—the royal motto of England, was the parole of the day given by Richard I. Dieu et Mon Droit appears to have been first assumed as a motto by Henry VI., 1422-1462. Semper Idem—"Always the Same"—was one of the mottos of Queen Elizabeth; also adopted by Queens Mary and Anne.

EGYPT TO BE A KINGDOM?

General Belief in That Country That Ancient Glory is to be Partially Restored.
There is a general conviction in Egypt that the country is to be declared a kingdom, that the present khedive will be its first king, and that England is only waiting the conclusion of the Turkish-Italian war to make the necessary announcement to which

France has already given assent. It is said that the project has immeasurably gratified the national pride of Egypt and that nothing could be so well designed to end the disaffection with which the country is now saturated. Evidently, Bellamy spoke the words of truth and soberness when he said that titles, decorations, and honors were greater human incentives than money. For such a change would make no practical difference to the state of Egypt. It would be a decorative Pharaoh instead of king, and establish the national capital at Memphis or Luxor?

FEW ESSENTIALS FOR MAKING GEESE-RAISING PROFITABLE

Business Necessarily Conducted on Small Scale Owing to Large Range Required by Big Birds—Experienced Raisers Realize From $2.00 to $7.00 Per Year From Each Fowl

A Trio of Prize Winning Geese.

(By PROF. L. SWINEY.)
The raising of geese is necessarily conducted for the most part on a small scale. This is due to the requirements of the birds with regard to range and also to their breeding habits and the expense connected with maintaining a large establishment for rearing them.

Geese are the most monogamous of all domestic fowls, so that it follows that a large number of expensive ganders would be necessary for conducting the business on any extensive scale. As a rule ganders mate with only two or three, rarely four, geese. Geese require extensive range. They thrive on green pasturage and water, even without the addition of other food to their diet. It is practically impossible to rear geese without a liberal supply of green vegetable food, such as clover, roots, cabbage, etc. Geese have no crops, like hens, and turkeys, and as a result they require more soft feed, and food should be given at more frequent intervals.

Geese do not become fully mature until the second or third season, and good results of breeding should not be expected from younger birds. Under favorable conditions they live to an extremely old age, frequently ranging from 50 to 75 years, and instances are recorded where they have exceeded 100 years of age. Good geese may be profitably kept for breeding purposes until 25 years of age, but ganders should not be kept past 10 years. They should then be replaced by younger birds.

Two common breeds of geese, the Embden and Toulouse, are descended from the Grayling geese of Europe, and the brown and white China geese are thought to have descended from the wild geese of Asia. A great improvement in weight has been accomplished during domestication, the wild geese of Europe weighing usually about ten pounds, while the weight of 35 pounds has been attained by domestic geese. The wild Canada goose is easily domesticated, and the ganders, mated with domestic geese, the crosses thus obtained are known as mongrels and are sterile. They are very highly prized in the market and bring larger prices than any other geese. The rearing of the wild Canada goose or its crosses is accomplished with considerable difficulty, and can only be accomplished after some experience. In breeding mongrels, one wild gander should be mated with a single African or Toulouse goose. The gander should be two or three years old. Mongrels are best fattened during cool weather in late autumn.

Experienced geese raisers realize from two to seven dollars per year from each breeding goose. It will be seen from these figures that geese may be even more productive than sheep. Green pasturage is absolutely essential to successful geese raising. Where available space for free pasturage is not to be had the birds must be fed on cut green vegetable food of various sorts. The presence of running water is also considered necessary by many breeders, and plenty of clean drinking water is essential under all conditions.

White geese are most desirable for market, the meat of such birds being whiter and making a better appearance.

MANAGEMENT OF FARM EWE FLOCK

Healthy Animal Will Thrive on Rougher Forage Than Other Animals, but Needs Care.

By all means keep your ewes healthy and vigorous, for upon a healthy, thrifty condition of ewes depends your success.

The healthy ewe is able to live on rougher forage than any other farm stock, but it is with sheep as with all else. You must give them some attention if you expect profit.

Men who every season make money from their lambs, and that if they feed them better for several weeks, and flush the ewe stock each fall, that is, before going to the buck, there are more twins and more milk at lambing time. Many of the trouble with weak lambs and empty udders would be avoided if your ewes were fatter when brought in for the winter.

Try the plan of flushing your ewes, then follow with good pasture, and you will see most profits. Have a dry, well-sheltered roomy yard, with deep shed for the ewes. If you have neighbors with dogs, have a tight, stout woven wire fence, with board top and bottom around the sheep fold. Keep the sheep in this yard at night—this will save your sheep, as well as your temper.

GOOD ROADS IN MICHIGAN.

Given Great Impetus by Sugar Beet Industry's Growth.

The rapid growth of the beet sugar industry in Michigan has been one of the powerful factors contributing to the extension of good roads in the state. While an acre of wheat or oats yields a crop weighing from half to two-thirds of a ton, the output from an acre of sugar beets averages ten tons or more. The beets cannot be marketed at any time that suits the convenience of the farmer. They must be delivered to the factory when it is ready to receive them, and this time is in the fall, when ordinary dirt roads are likely to be in bad condition.

The result has been that a strong demand for good roads has arisen wherever sugar factories have been established. The manufacturers have given heed to this, and the various sugar companies have adopted the custom wherever good roads funds have been started of contributing a dollar to this purpose for every dollar raised by the farmers themselves. The result is that nearly every town containing a beet sugar factory has become a center for good roads development. The benefits of this movement have not been confined to the beet farmers, of course, but have become evident in the improved appearance of the towns themselves, in the increased business done by their merchants and in the advancing values of real property.

There is nothing that will give a community a bigger boost in development and prosperity than the establishment of good roads, and it is fortunate for the state that its two greatest industrial developments of recent years, automobile manufacturing and the beet sugar industry, have both worked so powerfully toward the construction of the best type of highways.

PERFECT SUGAR

BEET SEED.

New Type Being Developed by Department of Agriculture.

The Department of Agriculture at Washington is run on the principle that small perfectness mean large profits. This is exemplified by the fact that the government scientists have tried for ten years to develop a certain type of sugar beet seed. The perfect seed is now in sight. Its establishment will mean an annual gain of from $11,000,000 to $13,000,000 to the sugar beet farmers of the west.

The possibility of developing the perfect seed was called to Secretary Wilson's attention by Truman G. Palmer, secretary of the United States beet sugar industry. In 1902, Secretary Wilson was confined to his home with a severe cold at the time, but he grew so excited about the matter that he forgot his cold and started his scientific men at work immediately.

Here is the story of what the perfect beet seed will do for the farmer:

The sugar beet crop needs unusual care. The seed is drilled in rows, several feet apart, and is planted in the fall. When the beets are up laborers go through the fields with a hoe and "block" them out, leaving a single small bunch every eight inches. And here the trouble comes, for a beet seed is rarely a single seed. It normally contains several beet germs—perhaps as many as six—so the little beet clusters must be thinned. Laborers go through the fields on hands and knees, grasping one hardy beetlet between the thumb and forefinger of the left hand, while with the right they pull out the remaining beetlets. If this operation is not performed at a certain period in the development of the beetlets those left to grow will die.

By great labor the government scientists secured 2,000 single-germ beet seeds. As only 1 per cent of beet seeds are normally single germs, over 200,000 seeds had to be minutely examined for this selection. It took two years to secure the first generation of the selected plants, for the beet is a biennial. The best plant yielded 26 per cent of single germ seed. In the second generation one plant yielded 80 per cent single germ seed. The fifth generation has just been reached and shows one plant yielding over 90 per cent of single germ seed. Probably in a few more generations the constant single germ seed will be a reality.

As a result the beet farmer will save from $5 to $8 an acre on hand labor, and it is estimated that his average earnings will be increased from one-third to one-half, thus adding from $23 to $26 to his profit per acre.

Root Crop Every Fourth Year.

Few persons realize that a large portion of Germany is but a sandy plain and her enormous crop yields due to the fact that for every three acres of cereals grown her farmers make one acre of root crops, thus producing a root crop on each field every fourth year. They grow sugar beets, which are possible and are the greatest producers of this vegetable in the world. So thoroughly do they appreciate the influence of a root crop on the yield of other crops that in sections where there are no factories to which they can sell their sugar beets they grow beets or other root crops and feed them to stock, as they do in Great Britain. But where there are sugar factories the farmers secure the double advantage of first selling the crop for sugar and then hauling its full feeding value back to the farm in the residue.

Flagged Train With Shirt.

Tearing his shirt from his back an Ohio man flagged a train and saved it from a wreck, but T. A. Ralston, Raleigh, N. C., once prevented a wreck with Electric Bitters. "I was in a terrible plight when I began to use them. My stomach had back and kidneys were all badly affected and I was in bad condition, but four bottles of Electric Bitters made me feel like a new man. A trial bottle will convince you of their matchless merit for any stomach trouble. Price 50 cents at A. M. Lewis & Co. Adv.

There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Mass. For sale by all dealers. Adv.
